Volume 97
Saint Mary's College and High School

Raleigh, NC 27603

The performing dance ensemble rehearses long hours for their spring performance.

Krista Hurlbut and Chip Williams welcome girls to Saint Mary's.

Maria Granda and Kathi Taylor are all dressed up, but where are they going?

Elizabeth Stark is being initiated into Undatettes.

ee Sidler points out Smedes to Mrs. Wiley Earp and s.Beth Harris.

Meredith Ferguson and Ches Pope listen attentively to ghost stories and fortune telling provided by Dean Jones during Ocktoberfest.

We made the trip for different reasons. We travelled from various locales and diverse backgrounds. But, we have a tie that will link us together forever. No matter how far we journey, or how much we grow, we will always be "Saint Mary's girls" and as such we will know each other.

Some of us ventured here for academic reasons. The rigorous schedule and the variety of classes was hard to resist. The flexibility of the teachers made learning something that we really wanted to do, some of us for the first time. The outside help that the faculty provided put the student and teacher in a close one on one relationship.

The opportunity to become involved in every level of campus life was appealing to many of us. There were clubs, sports teams, student leadership offices, publications, chorale, drama, dance, the offerings were endless. Every activity we participated in brought us closer to the heart of "the Saint Mary's experience."

What was the initial attraction? Was it the intimate campus atmosphere, the personal attention we received on our first visit, or the friendly smiles we saw exchanged among friends and were also directed at us, strangers? Or was it the overwhelming sense of history and timelessness that emanates from the venerable buildings and the brick walks? Or was it the sure knowledge that we would be surrounded by people who would nurture and guide us as members of a warm and wonderful extended family. We learned from them and about them as they learned from us and about us. As we acknowledged our similarities and our differences, we were readying ourselves for the next stage of our journey. And every day we saw and were increasingly able to pass on that which we had seen. Once we leave we will continue to pass it on because

We are all teachers. . .

ATLAS BREWER

A Fond Farewell

It's late afternoon and your car won't start. You HAVE to be in Chapel Hill in thirty minutes. What on earth are you going to do? Call Captain Brewer of course. You see a funny looking guy that you have never seen before on campus. You are suspicious. What are you going to do? Call Captain Brewer, of course. He'll discover that it is only Jennifer's date. You come in late at night and the campus is dark and quiet. Who is there to greet you? Captain Brewer, of course.

One of the most steadfast and reassuring sounds you can hear is Captain Brewer's "Hey there! How're you doing?" His hearty voice lets you know that all is well around the school and that you are safe and secure. He has been guarding us with patience and devotion for fourteen and a half years. His personality leaves a warm glow wherever he goes on campus as he checks to see that buildings are locked, lights are out and the young women are where they are supposed to be when they are supposed to be.

Captain Brewer is retiring in the spring of 1995. It will be virtually impossible to replace him. Sure, somebody will be head of security, but that somebody will not be Atlas Brewer. The light that falls on the grove will not be quite as bright when Captain Brewer retires. We will miss him tremendously.

Atlas Brewer watches carefully the comings and goings on campus. He has an uncanny ability to know just who belongs where.

"Saint Mary's Security. This is Brewer speaking." From his office in the student center or from his many rounds of the campus, Brewer was as close as the telephone.

On a cold December night, amid candles and carols and stars, Captain Atlas Brewer presided over the Lighting O' the Grove. At his command hundreds of lights blinked on and, with the luminaria, illuminated friends from town and campus who had joined to welcome the Christmas season.

The Journey Begins

The doors to a unique and special world are opened to us from the first day. . A world where honesty and trust are the norm, and anything else is unacceptable. The Honor Code is the foundation for the lessons that we learn and the lives that we lead. We are part of an atmosphere that nurtures learning and gives students an opportunity to plant their feet on the ground, preparing them for the obstacles that they will face down the road.

The 152nd Annual

Every road has a beginning and an end. For the new students arriving at Smedes on Saturday, August 20th, the beginning of their road had been paved by the SGA and RA old girls who came before them on August 17th.

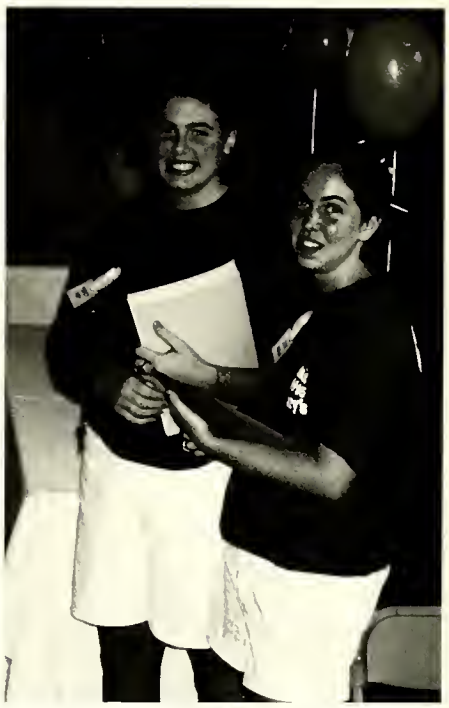
New girls were greeted by blue and white balloons floating from ribbons tied to lamp posts and railings, gaily decorated bulletin boards and welcoming signs on the dormitory doors.

Sandwiched in among the marathon of meetings were picnics, scavenger hunts, get-acquainted parties, skits, summer reading sessions and more names to remember than anyone believed she ever could.

Everyone seemed to be smiling all the time and there was a suppressed air of excitement on the day the returning students arrived. The campus, which had certainly been busy enough before, now teemed with activity. Squeals of glee echoed throughout the grove as friends greeted friends they had not seen all summer. Everyone talked at once, sharing, laughing, and settling back into the familiar routine.

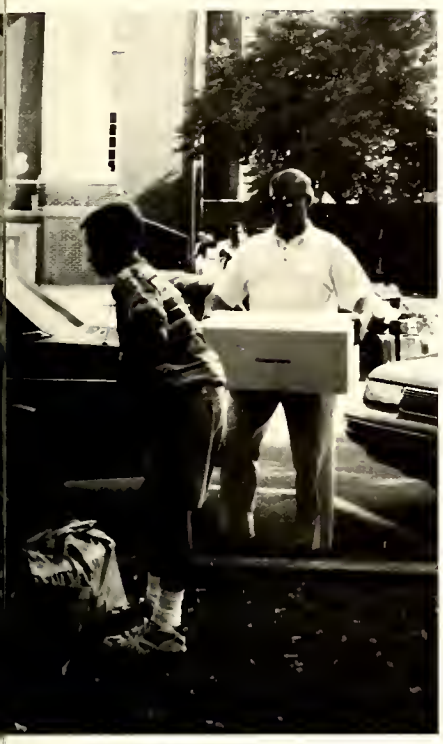
By all accounts Orientation 1994 was one of the most successful ever.

The new students are greeted by day student leaders, Harper Best and Laura Montgomery, who are distributing Publicity and Home Permission forms. These sheets add to the huge packets of information that new students receive on opening day.



Tracy Ivey and Julie Morgan wear the tee shirts and shorts that identify them as members of the orientation committee.

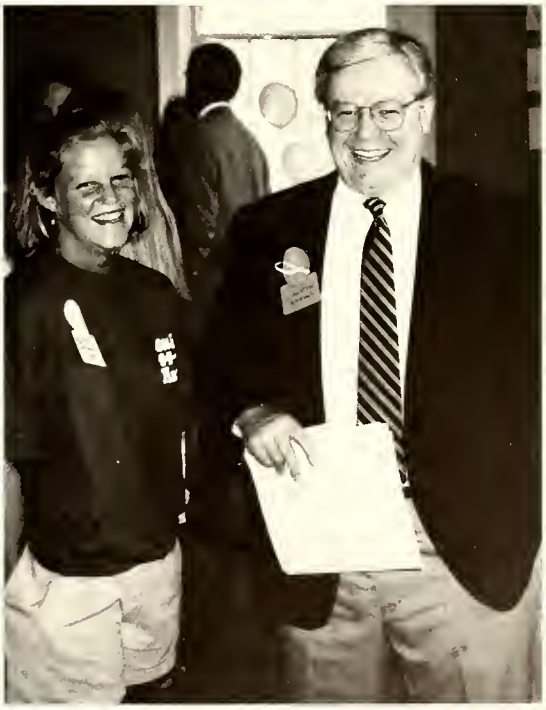
Pilgrimage to Smedes



Elizabeth Davis obviously plans to spend more than the next two years here. She appears to be set for life.

Are you telling me that THESE people are going to be leading me through the next year? Right! From left to right are Emily McQueen, Meghan Krell, Corey Mapes, Harper Best, Kitty Watkins, and Danielle Little.

What a Welcoming Committee! The lovely faces of the SGA and Resident Assistants shed blood, sweat and tears to get the school ready for all of us. But they had a great time doing it! They were easily recognizable in paprika tee shirts on the first few days of school.



Dr. Jenkins and Mary Harvard Nolde certainly seem glad the new year is beginning.

The Goodbyes Make

and so become yourself because the past is just a goodbye.

the Journey Harder

Over the years, when alumnae are asked about their experiences, almost all of them value the friendships they made. The close bonds that are forged in the early days of life on campus usually last throughout lifetimes. Many will keep in touch for years to come. One disadvantage we all share is the knowledge that one day we will have to part with our friends, who have become a vital part of our every day lives.

Oh The Places You'll Go

The director of student activities and day student coordinator were busy planning countless trips and functions for students to attend. Some of them included roller skating, days at Pullen and Jaycee parks, trips to the zoo, picnics, and many others.

Kati Chapman and Ashley Wellons are a prime example of the closeness shared between friends who are always together. Here, they are having dinner on the dining hall patio.

Above Center: Katherine Holt and Lynn Pritchett are having difficulties manuvering their paddle boat at Pullen Park. It looks like they are headed for a collision with the photographer's boat.

High school students went roller skating on one of the first weekends after school started.

Far left: Emily Jenkins, Cooper Thornhill, Emily McQueen, and Emmye Taft are collecting samples of creek water on an environmental science field study. Where did Emily J. get those overalls?

Ninth and tenth graders Sarah Harris, Nancy DiMaio, Kat Krouse, Meghan Costello, Tamara Cochran, Katherine Mitchell, Erica Lind, Catherine Cerne, Sarah Barbee, and Elizabeth Hill took a trip to the zoo.

Catherine Forsythe and Anna Bradsher Honeycutt work together on a lab experiment in their science class.

Pullen Park was a blast when boarding students visited on a Saturday in August. We climbed on the caboose, rode the train around the park, toyed with paddle boats, among other things.

JulieAnne Arnold and her friend Bud listen attentively, as always, to the wonderful words of Dr. E.

Jessica Hobbs, Allison Wilkes, and Louise Harris are jukin' and jivin' to the rhythm of When Cousins Marry.

Dr. Esthimer is a true carry-over from those 70's years. Has he always been this laid back?

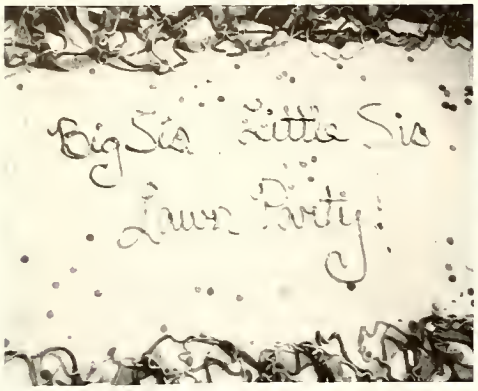
Fall Frolics

On a lazy afternoon at summer's ebb, Dr. Esthimer's Band, When Cousins Marry, provided the entertainment for the Labor Day Picnic. They played a variety of classical rock music which kept the girls listening for hours. The usual picnic menu of hamburgers and hot dogs was served on the patio outside the dining hall. Although it doesn't take much to get girls excited about a holiday, this picnic added to the feelings of anticipation.

Maria Granda, Heather Holden, Farrah Amerson, Mika Lanier, Alicia Isenberg, and Jenny Bennett dramatize a scene from "Little Women."

Annie Mason, Alice Manning, and Betsy Poole wait for the dinner Mrs. Hill and Mr. Mathieu are preparing for their advisees.

Amid all the commotion of "meeting" our sisters, we took a break and had some delicious cake. It was labeled just in case we forgot why we were there.



Leslie Allred found El Boykin, her long lost sister. The two caught up and remembered old times. It's funny that they don't resemble each other much, isn't it?

Southern Belles Erica Lind, Melissa Razabdowski, Laura Montgomery, and Harper Best enjoy the cake and lemonade as they rest in the shade.

Tea for Two

On a balmy Thursday afternoon in September, Saint Mary's girls were invited to an English Lawn Party right after an All Campus Chapel. The shaded grassy area between Pittman Auditorium and the soccer field was a scene right out of a Jane Austen novel. Dressed in their finest, Big Sisters searched for their Little Sisters and when they found them, got acquainted over cake and lemonade. Graceful figures floated through the air as girls played badminton and and swung croquet mallets. It was a chance for Old Girls to greet each other and meet the New Girls. Laughter hung in the air as the sun cast elongated shadows on the lawn. Students mingled with faculty and staff and chattered about plans and dreams for the coming academic year. Little Sisters were full of questions about campus life and Big Sisters, with at least a year of experience under their belts, felt important when they could provide the right answers. The afternoon was such a success that many hoped the English Lawn Party could become yet another tradition.

Jennifer Lewis, Nancy Hill, and Kelly Karras are soccer playing pals who are glad to see each other ag

This is the Life

Natalie Jones looks surprised to be the camera's main focus. Maybe she's ready for seconds, and just wants the photographer to make way.

On September 29th, we held our first attempt at a "bring-a-date" pig pickin'. Only a few dates showed up, but the function was still a lot of fun. The band, Life in General, was the highlight of the afternoon. Their music was a refreshing mix of their own originals and well-loved favorites. They were extremely enthusiastic and encouraged the audience to join in their fun by providing extra noise makers such as, maracas, a tambourine, squeaky toys, and others. The use of these instruments made the event even more enjoyable. To top it off, activities director, Louise Harris and other Saint Mary's girls joined Life in General on the patio playing the instruments and singing along.

Farrah Amerson laughs at what appears to be an inside joke. Jenny Bennett, Ashley Thompson, Carrie Upchurch, Evelyn Way and a date don't find it at all funny. Apparently some people are just more easily amused than others.

As Jennifer Rasmovich and Becca George walk over to the refreshment stand, Charlotte Kosanin walks away with a nice cold coke.

El Boykin, Katherine Wrenn, Ashley Smith, Raven McDonald and Anne Helene Novak are delighted that good old Chip bar-b-qued some mighty tasty pork for our Pig Pickin'.

We've Got Spirit!

We've got spirit, yes we do! We've got spirit, how 'bout you? Spirit Week is a time for fun and friendly competition between students. This year's events included Disco Day, Nerd Day, Twin Day, Saint Mary's Day, a banner contest, a kickball tournament, and a volleyball game in which the faculty and staff challenged the students. The students were divided into teams by floor for boarding students and by class for day students. The overall winners were second Penick, third Smedes, and the ninth and tenth grade day students.

On the set of "Dazed and Confused," we...oops! My mistake. It's just Danielle Little, Kitty Watkins and Emily McQueen, all dressed up for Disco Day.

President Jenkins sneaks in a little practice before the big Faculty vs. Students volleyball game. Very clever, Dr. Jenkins, very clever.

Here are the master minds behind the genius of the winning college dorm banner, Jennifer Rasmovich, Louise Harris, Cassie Warrington, Jessica Hobbs, Allison Wilkes, Stephanie Phillips, Kari Syrdahl and Tracy Tranguch.

The ninth grade day students transform into toddlers as they come to school prepared for Banner Day. LeAnn Earp, Missy Lund, Elizabeth Hill, Sarah Harris, Nancy DiMaio, Katherine Mitchell, and Catherine Cerne model their P.J.'s.

I didn't know Ruth had a twin! No, wait. I didn't know M'Lee had a twin. Ruth Hearn and M'Lee Welch are dressed alike for Twin Day. But who's who?

Dr. Esthimer goes au naturelle as he lets his true self come out on Nerd Day. Not being the normal cool, suave Dr. Esthimer, many students didn't even recognize him!

The ever spirited girls from Penick dorm flaunt their stuff as they form a pyramid in the middle of the dining hall.

Perfect Parents' Day

A crisp October day found parents on campus going through a typical schedule with their daughters. Well, almost typical because classes were shortened to cover all the activities on the agenda. Registration in Smedes parlor afforded parents and students a chance to meet and greet over coffee and juice and the dining hall's famous poppy seed muffins. Classes were followed by a sumptuous luncheon after which the Cold Cuts performed.

Other events of the day included student artwork on display around the campus, and performances by the Drama Club and the Performing Dance Ensemble. Members of the tennis team paired up with their mothers to play a round robin tournament, while the rec league and varsity soccer teams joined forces for an exhibition scrimmage on the soccer field.

The day ended with a Sundown Social on Dr. Jenkins' back lawn. The highlight of the decorations was the first place winning pumpkin designed and decorated by the ninth and tenth graders. A country band provided entertainment at the social. It was a great place for parents to get acquainted with each other as well as with the faculty and staff.

Candler Vaughan greets her mother in the halls of Ragland after a class. On Parents' Day all the students were seen looking bright-eyed and awake, dressed nicely for class. (As if we weren't like that every day!)

During the reception in Smedes Parlor, parents were everywhere, following their daughters with folders in hand. Katherine Holt and her mom seem pleased to see each other.

Allyson Scott's mother was among the parents who came from near and far to see their girls on Parents' Day.

Lynn Pritchett and Corey Mapes mingle with a friend at the Sundown Social. Parents and students gathered in the blooming backyard of Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins to enjoy heavy hors d'ouvres and band music. It seems Mr. Scarecrow misplaced his parents and Lynn and Corey were cheering him up!

A man on campus! Eeek! It's Lee Posey's father, accompanying her to class in Ragland. Lee's dad looks over the classroom, observing carefully to make sure everything is in order for his daughter.

"Isn't it just like high school again, guys?" Stephanie Loy's mother reminisces. Stephanie and Anna Bradsher Honeycutt apparently don't share the same excitement.

Dig In! During the pumpkin carving contest, we rolled up our sleeves and dove right into the orange depths of the vegetable. Hard at work are Corey Mapes, Lynn Pritchett, Fiquet Bailey, Katherine Holt, Elizabeth O'Donnell, Julie Morgan, and Danielle Costineau.

Students were encouraged to bring a pumpkin and some creativity to the picnic area on back campus. Ideas ranged from painting to carving both silly and scary faces on their pumpkins. The best decorated pumpkins were chosen to be on display at the President's house for the Sundown Social on Parents' Day.

Tossing out all the pumpkin seeds, Jessica Hobbs and Allison Wilkes look happy to do so. Come on, girls! You're supposed to toast the seeds and eat 'em!

There are my Crayola Crayons! Just kidding, it's the High School SGA, dressing up for Halloween.

The Great Pumpkin Affair

This year, Octoberfest was in conjunction with Founder's Week. Some of the activities planned for the celebration included a Cold Cuts performance and a tie dye party on the dining hall patio. Tuesday night was karaoke and make your own pizza night. Many students took advantage of the opportunity to sing along to their favorite tunes in front of the student body. Others had more fun laughing at the fearless performers.

Founder's Day chapel was graced by the presence of Saint Mary's founding mothers and fathers, only in costume of course. A number of the faculty, staff, and administration wore clothing from the mid 1800s, the time in which Saint Mary's was founded. That same night, a campfire was built on back campus. Here, students made S'mores with marshmallows roasted on straightened coat hangers, combined with chocolate and graham crackers. Ghost stories were told around the fire, and as a result, many students slept in rooms with a large group of their friends to ease their fright. In Smedes, some girls, who had single rooms, did not sleep alone in their rooms for the entire week.

On Halloween, a carnival was set up in the dining hall. Most of the social clubs, along with some other organizations, set up booths in which students played games, such as bobbing for apples. Also at the carnival was a costume contest, cake walks, and fortune telling by none other than Ms. ESP herself, Madam Lou Lou, Dean Jones.

Ellen Stecker displays her ringing school spirit by dressing up as a telephone for Halloween.

Ashley O'Brian, Leslie Allred, Elizabeth O'Donnell, and Kati Chapman boogie on Karaoke night. The various brave souls at Saint Mary's were actually convincing as they pretended not to have stage fright. There was an enormous list of songs to choose from that night. And in case anyone forgot the words to the chosen song, there was a TV screen to watch as the words moved down. "Oh, what a night!"

Puttin' on the Ritz

Is it possible to take a drab, utilitarian space and turn it into a place of magic and mystery? The high school and college SGAs with the able help of Student Activities Director Louise Harris did it! The Elks Lodge on Millbroook Road was transformed into a dim, glittering world of candlelight and sparkles. Long, spangly ribbons dangled from the dozens of helium filled balloons that floated on the ceiling. The floor was covered with shiny, multi-colored confetti, as was each table top. Beside the candles on the tables were top hats and batons, symbols, of course, of "the Ritz." Music was provided by The Risse, from Durham, who played a variety of songs ranging from The Village People to Van Morrison. In fact, before the first huge wave of students and their dates arrived, the group played a range of oldies for the chaperones who were there on time. Getting dressed up and stepping out was great!

Elizabeth O'Donnell and El Boykin, are exhauste after a long night of puttin' on the ritz.

Amy Mackie and her escort, who says "Are we having fun yet?"

Who's Chaperoning here? Jessica Hobbs and Holly Evans keep an eye on Mr. Mathieu and Dr. Bauso.

Evelyn Way, Elizabeth Davis, Emme Barfield, Ann Helen Novak, and Erin Higgins take a break from dancing.

Danielle Ruffino, Lisa Mann, and their dates are kicking it up and "puttin' on the ritz!"

Tracy Tranguch and her date are ready for the party!

The Risse did a terrific job of providing music for all generations. But is that really her hair, or not?

The Grove Glows at Christmas

Lighting O' The Grove was the last activity planned before Christmas break to bring together students, faculty, staff, and family. The night began with a special Christmas chapel, where the new marshalls' dresses were blessed. Candles were passed out at the end of Chapel and the congregation proceeded outside.

Everyone gathered around the Christmas tree in front of Smedes. Holding their candles and singing carols, anxiously awaiting the lighting of the tree. Atlas Brewer did the honors, while Evelyn Way performed a solo. The crowd was visited by Scrooge and Santa, who reiterated to us the meaning of Christmas.

As the chorale delighted the audience with their lovely voices, Dr. Quinn directed. Toward the end of the ceremony, Evelyn Way sang a beautiful solo of "Oh, Holy Night."

Santa Claus pays a visit to Saint Mary's just long enough to teach Mr. Scrooge the true spirit of Christmas. I just happen to have inside information that they weren't really Santa Claus and Scrooge. Maybe I'm not supposed to say anything, but it was really Dr. Esthimer as Santa and Dr. Bauso as Scrooge. What tipped me off? I saw Dr. Bauso's daughter waving to him and saying "Hi Daddy!" Scrooge doesn't have a daughter!

Cam Ross, Katy Taylor, Karen Edmondson, January Belk, Ryan Baker, Sherrod Sisco, and Shaner Garner get together for the camera, candles in hand.

The Christmas tree was on display in front of Smedes for the Lighting O' The Grove. It was beautifully decorated by the SGA and Silent S.

What angels we have as our SGA! That's right, the student government dressed up as angels for the Lighting O' The Grove, sponsored by the Granddaughter's Club. Danielle Little, Corey Mapes, Kitty Watkins, Cassie Warrington, Emily McQueen, Meghan Krell, Allison Wilkes, Adrianne Stone, Charlotte Kosanin, and Jessica Hobbs didn't need to dress up. We all know they're angels!

Danielle Costineau, Sarah Barbee, Allison Thompson, and Jennifer Spencer sing carols, and receive a little warmth from their candles.

Two year olds they aren't, but they are precious! Robin Thomas, El Boykin, Maria Granda, Nikki Savage and Jackie Rogers are ready for their bedtime story.

Santa NEVER looked so good! The Cold Cuts are radiant as they contribute to the holiday spirit in Smedes. Christie Anderson and Liz Spratt brighten up the parlor.

Laura Montgomery, Alicia Isenberg, Erin Kiliany, and Lal Johnson line up for their hot chocolate and cookies.

Margaret McGlohon and Beth Jenkins "drive" this particular Miss Daisy straight to the arms of a surprised Dean Jones. Daisy is dressed in a facsimile of the marshalls' gowns that Dean Jones provided for the school.

'Twas almost the night before. . .

Who says Christmas is just for little children? It is for everybody who gathers in Smedes Parlor after the Lighting O' The Grove. Circle and Beacon, honorary leadership societies in the college and high school respectively, invite all the girls to put on their pajamas and come snuggle down with hot chocolate and cookies to hear Santa Claus recite "The Night Before Christmas." The Cold Cuts add new dimensions to their performance by taking on new personas. It is a warm and happy time when we celebrate the holidays and the fact that we have survived another semester. It is also a time to celebrate the extended family we are all a part of every single season we are here and together.

Speaking of personas - that Dr. E. is a master of disguises, or should we say surprises? He just never quits, does he? At least he had every single one of us fooled. We would have never known it was him.

The Way We Are

One needs only a casual glance at these two pages to see that we do love to eat! Actually, we work hard and we play hard. Life long friendships develop around shared popcorn, coke, pizza, and food from home. We have the wonderful ability to turn the slightest event into an occasion, especially if there is food involved!

Once everyone was settled in their new rooms, they didn't take time to enjoy them. They'd all leave and go to someone else's room! Dorm life at Saint Mary's is the best!

Melanie Holmes and Thronie Jefferson do the croissants and coke thing at brunch in the dining hall.

There were just a few days between the end of orientation and the official beginning of fall. The Labor Day picnic is an annual affair anticipated by Jennifer Hardison, Julie Morgan, Sarah Dowd, and Chandler Byrd.

Three childhood friends are still together as Seniors at Saint Mary's High School. Kate Walton, Dickens Whitley, Ann Powell prove that true friendships last, even when Dickens is a boarder and the others aren't.

Two day student beauties, Tyler Harris and Laura Montgomery bask in the late afternoon sun during the fall pig pickin". It was a perfect day for a picnic, as their smiles show. Either that, or there was something funny in that Coke.

Every day and night during the week of Octoberfest brings new opportunities for culinary delights, as Lindsay Hardison and Elizabeth Davis demonstrate.

Kelly Livingston shows true grit as she works off calories on the stair master. Too many picnics, lunches and brunches require diligent exercise.

Ashley Smith and Raven McDonald are roommates, soccer teammates, and best friends forever.

College students gather in the gym. This group is comprised of Ashley Dawson, Sarah Paige Allen, Beth Herring, Whitney Szymcyk, Mary Norvell Hope, Jane Twamley, Christy Anderson, Kerie Beth Ratteree, Brennan Mosley, Deborah Aycock and Cyndi Warren.

Beth Bernstein, Day Student, third from right, is spending the night with friends in Smedes. Her welcoming commmitte is made up of Laura Burke Davis, Eliza Jenkins, Linda Lawson, Katherine Holt, Kimry Blackwelder, Ruth Hearn, and Elizabeth O'Donnell.

They clearly have a destination in mind, but where could it be? Jane Twamley, Ashley Summerlin, Cyndi Warren, Christy Anderson, Charlotte Kosanin and Jill Djordjevic get ready to hit the road.

When we are not eating we like to move around in groups getting ready to at. There is, after all, safety in umbers. Obviously, the students ren't the only ones interested in ood.

Along the Way

There is still a little girl lurking in all of us. Sarah Inman, Evelyn Way, Elizabeth Davis, and Kim Kulers are so proud of their artistry.

It's a feast, and Mrs. Hill is first in line.....Ha!Ha!Ha! {Actually, she is uncovering the mountains of food the day girls brought in for the Thanksgiving dinner}.

Ashley Bell, Janet Uy, Brennan Mosley, Jane Smith, Tracy Ivey, Amy Palmer, Ginny Jackson, Kim Newman, Zoe Graham, Jennifer Zahren and Emmalee Jones.

It's a Spiders walk! Ashley O'Brien, Kate Walton, M'Lee Welch, Dickens Whitley, Lucy Heath, Nancy Sylvester, and Emily Harer are amused at their antics.

Also Takes Us Away

The end of the sophomore year finds us on the brink of yet another bittersweet moment. As exciting as it is to end one set of experiences to begin another, it is with sadness that we realize that our journeys often take us in different directions from the places we have been anchored until now. As we embrace our young womanhood we sense the poignancy with which the childhood is left behind for the ones who hold those memories so close to their hearts.

Dreams Can and

Feed them on your dreams. The one they pick,

Do Become Reality

Dreams have a way of being passed on, changing in the process. The dreams of a college freshman reflect where she has come from more than where she is going, because this particular leg of the journey is just starting. She will begin to put together the pieces that she has gathered and weave them into the part that will become the whole. This is a time to collect that which will be necessary to see the journey to its end.

Wise Women Don't

Have All the Answers

By now we are beginning to understand how much it is that we do not know and how far we have to grow. The end of the high school journey poises us for our initial venture into truly unfamiliar realms. But because we have been loved and nurtured, we are ready to face what is beyond the grove with confidence and compassion.

Innocence is Bliss

For many students the eleventh grade year is one of transition. Boarding girls may be away from home for the first time and day girls may be leaving familiar surroundings and old friends for a second chance. We all are beginning to wonder about the abundant opportunities that wait for us. Anything and everything is possible. We do feel invincible.

Spirit Conquers All

The tenth graders did bring a wave of spirit with them. They believed in the honor code and lived by its spirit daily. They got to know each other during a special orientation event which included them and the ninth graders on a weekend beach retreat. They brought energy and enthusiasm to every activity they participated in from mixers, to spirit week, to slumber parties. Their tender years do keep them safe. They are, in fact, the wave of the future.

The Dawn of a New

And so, please help them with their

Day

The ninth graders were so proud to be here that it radiated from them like sunshine. They glowed with their youth and their freshness. Every day was a new adventure all year long. The events that took them off campus - beach trips, mountain trips, mixers, cookouts - only heightened their anticipation of what was to come. And for them especially, a whole new world did open up. A world in which they were expected to work harder than they ever had before, but a world in which there were adults and older students who were there to lovingly teach and guide. And with the dawn of each new day this first year, their smiles just grew brighter.

It is a privilege that we are here. As such, it is our responsibilty to try to give back some of what we have been so fortunate to receive. All clubs and organizations are expected to be service minded, whether it is collecting canned goods for the fall food drive or volunteering at the Crossroads Program at Christ Church. Initiations are often loud and silly, but a seriousness of purpose underlies each group. Reaching out to others is one way to discover our own truths.

Sports

Teach your parents well; their children's pain will slowly go by

Athletics promote sound bodies to accompany sound minds. Fall sports include high school volley ball, college tennis and club soccer that this past year was a mixture of high school and college players. The high school basketball season spans the Christmas holidays and tends to overlap with swimming and soccer in the spring. There has been a tennis dynasty here for decades. Now we are on our way to becoming a soccer and basketball powerhouse. The girls joining the various sports programs are not only outstanding athletes, they are extremely capable scholars, most of whom carry a 3.5 GPA or higher. In addition to the usual bonds formed among students, team members are molded by a camaraderie that is the result of a unified effort to perform at the peak of one's ability.

UNDEFEATED!!!

THE high school tennis team was led to an undefeated season by state champion Jeni Burnette and state finalists M'Lee Welch and Ruth Hearn. As PACIS champions, the team finished in second place among all independent schools in the state tournament. Coach Gammon feels that "we were very fortunate that this talented group chose Saint Mary's."

Sarah McClure instructs her worthy opponent on the finer points of the game.

Ruth Hearn looks confused, but Tracy Harris, LuAnne Box, and Jeni Burnette have all the answers. Just ask them!

Student Life

Dreams. Each girl arrives with her head full of expectations. It is the dream that propels each of us forward, gives meaning to the work we do to succeed academically and gives us something to anticipate at the end of the work. From orientation to graduation there is life abundant here. There are picnics, dances, celebrations of seasons, celebrations of celebrations! This is the life.

FATHER DAUGHTER 1995

The Daddys arrived on February 15, just in time to register in Smedes Parlor and head to the dining halls with their daughters for brunch. Entertainment was provided by the Cold Cuts. In keeping with tradition, the ladies allowed their fathers to take them shopping. It was difficult to walk very far at Crabtree Valley Mall without running into girls and their dads. Later that afternoon, the fathers who were not familiar with Raleigh were given the grand tour. Before the dance students and their fathers dined at some of Raleigh's finest restaurants, such as the Black Marlin, The Melting Pot and Casa Carbone. After dinner, it was off to the dance. The DJ's played songs ranging from old rock and roll classics to modern day hip hop. Everyone received a special treat when Cam Ross's dad show off his singing talents. Sunday's chapel service was highlighted by a sermon delivered by Jessica Hobbes' father. The festivities ended with brunch in the dining hall and a heart full off delightful memories for the daddys and their little girls.

Jeannine Eason and Ann Dial McMillan marshalled the high school graduates to their seats.

College sophomores march through the grove for the last time.

The final rendition of the school hymn for the sophomores.

Faculty

The one they pick, the one you know by.

Faculty, staff and administrators all enjoy a close and special relationship with the students that extends far beyond the classroom. There is always someone for the girls to talk to, whether about troubles or happy times. From advisors to professors to the folks who work in lower Smedes, the support system here is one of the things that sets us apart. As we stated earlier, we do love to eat.

Bits and Pieces

Bits and pieces, Bits and pieces.

People, people important to you, people unimportant to you, cross your life, touch it with love and carelessness and move on. There are people who leave you and you breathe a sigh of relief and wonder why you ever came into contact with them. There are people who leave you and you breathe a sigh of remorse and wonder why they had to go away and leave such a gaping hole. Children leave parents; friends leave friends. Acquaintances move on, people change houses. People grow apart. Enemies hate and move on. Friends love and move on. You think on the many who have moved into your hazy memory. You look on those present and wonder.

I believe in a master plan in lives moving people in and out of each other's lives, and each leaves a mark on the other. You find you are made up of bits and pieces of all who ever touched your life, and you are more because of it, and you would be less if they had not touched you.

Hope that you accept the bits and pieces in humility and wonder, and never question, and never regret.

Bits and pieces, Bits and pieces. -Lois Cheney

Thank you for making my years at Saint Mary's so wonderful!
I love you! Julie Johnson

No matter what patterns our lives create, we will always be connected, and our friendship, like a piece of the finest lace, will always be precious and beautiful.

Teach Your Children

You, who are on the road
Must have a code
That you can live by
And so, become yourself
Because the past is just a goodbye

Teach your children well
Their father's pain
Did slowly go by
And feed them on your dreams
The one they pick
The one you know by

Don't you ever ask them why
If they told you you would cry
So just look at them and sigh
And know they love you

And you, of the tender years
Can't know the fears
That your elders grew by
And so, please help them with your youth
They seek the truth before they can die

Don't you ever ask them why
If they told you you would cry
So just look at them and sigh
And know they love you

Teach your parents well
Their children's pain
Will slowly go by
And feed them on your dreams
The one they pick
The one you'll know by

Don't you ever ask them why
If they told you you would cry
So just look at them and sigh
And know they love you
